1 (Case called; appearances noted)

2 THE COURT: Because you're not needed, Mr. Illoovsky,
3 in the main action, I'd like to address the proposed motion
4 with respect to your client first.

5 Mr. Wenner, why don't you proceed with the proposed
6 sanction motion.

7 MR. WENNER: Thank you, your Honor.

8 Craig Wenner, Boies Schiller.

9 I assume I can be heard on the phone.

10 THE COURT: Can you hear, Mr. Illoovsky?

11 MR. ILLOVSKY: Yes, I can. Thank you.

12 THE COURT: OK.

13 MR. WENNER: We had called Mr. Illoovsky on the phone
14 to tell him about our anticipated motion. We managed to speak.
15 We had wanted to file it quickly, but he requested just for one
16 week, and we waited the week to file. We've discussed this on 17 the phone just the one time. We filed our letter and haven't 18 gotten a response yet.

19 I think it should be a fairly straightforward process.
20 We incurred the burden and expense of pursuing discovery from 21 Mr. Petelin, and perhaps I could just give a quick chronology,
22 which I think will also be relevant to the question about the 23 S&P Partners evidence.

24 THE COURT: OK.

25 MR. WENNER: On June 28, 2018, so mid one year ago,

J64WmisdC

1 the Court ordered Frank Monstrey to be deposed, and by this
2 point we had already been litigating the subpoenas in the 3 miscellaneous matter with Mr. Petelin.

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. WENNER: The following day, on June 29, he asked
6 for more time for his document production and subpoena and 7 deposition in order to produce documents that he was obtaining
8 from an unnamed source overseas.

9 THE COURT: Right.

10 MR. WENNER: The Court granted him the extra time to 11 obtain those documents. In the interim we deposed Mr. Monstrey
12 in mid-July, and Mr. Petelin was scheduled to be deposed about 13 a week later, in late July. And the day before Mr. Monstrey's
14 deposition, he notified the Court that he had not yet obtained 15 those documents that he was still trying to obtain from 16 ultimately Russia, he says.

17 THE COURT: Right.

18 MR. WENNER: And then on July 20, just after Mr.
19 Monstrey's deposition, Mr. Petelin had a health issue and asked
20 to adjourn his deposition, which the Court granted. He was 21 ultimately deposed in late August, and ten days before his 22 deposition, we received the production of documents from him.
23 These were the documents from this unnamed source overseas.
24 And at this point we had obtained from Frank Monstrey a set of 25 documents describing a series of deals in transferring the

J64WmisiC

1 right to receive a payment relating to an interest in a company
2 called Jacques 9. That payment ultimately went to the company
3 Northern Seas Waterage, and according to the deal documents and
4 according to Frank Monstrey's testimony, this was to basically
5 buy out defendant Mukhtar Ablyazov.

6 THE COURT: OK. That's the 440 million.

7 MR. WENNER: That's the 440 million.

8 THE COURT: Right.

9 MR. WENNER: So coming to Mr. Petelin's deposition, we
10 had these documents from Frank Monstrey, we had the narrative
11 that we were going to prove ultimately at trial and then in the 12 documents we received from Mr. Petelin were those documents
13 handful of the same documents Frank Monstrey produced, but 14 rather than signed by Mr. Ablyazov, they were signed by Gennady
15 Petelin.

16 We then deposed him and asked him questions and heard
17 his narrative response explaining the deal, and now we had at 18 that point two contrary narratives, two alternative stories.
19 We could prove that ours was the correct one, but we would not 20 have moved at that point for any kind of sanctions like we are 21 now. That would have been an issue for a fact finder at a
22 trial to decide our narrative is the correct one, is the true
23 one. Perhaps sanctions at that point, I don't know. But it's 24 the farthest we had at that moment.

25 We then learned at Mr. Petelin's deposition that we had these contrary documents; that defendants were going to rely on an alternative universe of documents and a narrative and they were going to challenge the authenticity of Mr. Monstrey's documents.

J64WmisiC

THE COURT: OK.

MR. WENNER: We then took a couple of steps to try and obtain information from S&P Partners. We broached the Hague request with the defendants, and it was after the close of discovery at this point. They declined to agree to a Hague request. We asked Mr. Monstrey to go request the documents from S&P Partners, and we pursued the documents with a line of questioning with Mr. Ablyazov at his deposition, and he completely denied any knowledge or involvement with S&P Partners. We reached a couple of dead ends and actually obtained documents relating to S&P Partners.

THE COURT: Did you get a signature expert to look at that?

MR. WENNER: We did, your Honor. We've offered as an affirmative expert and we've exchanged rebuttal reports already showing that our version is authentic. It's the version signed by Mukhtar Ablyazov and cosigned or witnessed by Ilyas Khrapunov.

THE COURT: OK.

MR. WENNER: So all the while we're preparing to prove the authenticity, prove our narrative, trying to obtain

J64WmisiC

1 documents from the original source, the original custodian, the 2 person who had uncontroverted proof that the documents as they
3 were made at the time were the ones we say they were.

4 In January 2019, we learned that independent of our
5 efforts, the Kazak criminal investigation, government, had
6 received from the Isle of Man -- I should say it was in January
7 2019, just to get the chronology right, that the Isle of Man
8 provided their response to the Kazak government. It was not 9 until a month later, mid-February, that we learned that that 10 had been a production of documents by the Isle of Man, and we 11 put under seal certain details regarding that criminal
12 investigation by the Kazak authorities, so I won't go into too
13 much detail, but it was a month after that that we were able to 14 actually put eyes on the documents. And then by March 31 we 15 had the permission to use them. And then with two days we 16 produced them, on April 7.

17 Having then produced us those documents, being in a
18 position to use them in another litigation, we prepared and 19 filed our sanctions motion, teed that up as quickly as we could 20 regarding Mr. Petelin. And those documents from the Isle of 21 Man, from a corporate services provider that has no skin in the 22 game other than to provide a truthful response to the attorney
23 general of the Isle of Man shows that the documents they had in 24 their custody and control were the ones that we had put forward
25 through -- the ones that Mr. Monstrey had produced.

J64WmisiC

1 THE COURT: That were signed by defendant Ablyazov.

2 MR. WENNER: Right, and that the version -- they had
3 no record, had no evidence, disclaimed any representation of 4 Mr. Petelin.

5 THE COURT: And Mr. Petelin testified during his 6 deposition that he was the signatory on the documents?

7 MR. WENNER: Yes, that he signed those documents; that
8 he provided the instructions to S&P Partners regarding this 9 transaction; he stepped into the shoes of Mr. Ablyazov. And 10 that was false.

11 THE COURT: OK.

12 MR. WENNER: That was fake.

13 THE COURT: OK.

14 MR. WENNER: We think as far as the process going
15 forward, it should be fairly simple. We had subpoenaed Mr.
16 Petelin in a miscellaneous action that was heard in California.
17 That court transferred it to your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Right.

19 MR. WENNER: You have jurisdiction over Mr. Petelin.
20 We suggest that your Honor call him, have a hearing, hear him
21 testify, let us confront him. You'll be able to make a
22 credibility determination. We can have a posttrial submission,
23 and your Honor can determine the merits of the sanctions at 24 that point. It can be fairly straightforward and simple, and I
25 should say that this is a separate action, completely

J64WmisiC

1 independent of any question about the use of those documents in
2 the main action.

3 THE COURT: OK.

4 MR. WENNER: In fact, defendants in the main action
5 are not parties to the miscellaneous action, so it should be us
6 questioning Mr. Petelin about his subpoena responses and
7 confronting him with those documents. That would be the hearing
8 that we would ask for.

9 THE COURT: OK.

10 Mr. Illoovsky, I'd like to hear from you.

11 MR. ILLOVSKY: Yes, your Honor. Thank you.

12 It seems to me that any motion for sanctions against 13 Mr. Petelin should, I think, best be taken up after the trial.
14 This is all pretty complicated stuff and the deposition was 15 several months ago, but I think I would be asking for a little 16 bit of discovery before the hearing, before any sanctions are 17 imposed, to explore the authenticity of these newly produced
18 documents.

19 Apparently there are witnesses on the Isle of Man.
20 Somebody signed a declaration, and there's a lot of detail as 21 somebody that I think on Mr. Petelin's behalf I would like to 22 question. I know that there's been a lot of discovery water
23 under the bridge, and a lot of it's under seal, and I haven't
24 seen. But I have seen from public court filings allegations
25 that the Kazakhstan plaintiffs have paid a witness, and so I

J64WmisiC

1 think on Mr. Petelin's behalf I should be able to explore that.

2 But because I'm assuming that the authenticity of --
3 the subpoena enforcement case is a separate action. I'm 4 assuming that the authenticity of these documents is going to 5 be an issue at the trial, so it seems to me it would be better
6 for the Court and for the parties to have the authenticity of 7 these documents worked out at the trial by the parties, and it
8 may obviate the motion, depending on what the Court hears and 9 decides at the trial. If there's anything left, Mr. Petelin
10 can raise that in a subsequent hearing on the motion, if there
11 is one.

12 And also it seems like it would be better, if there is 13 this important authenticity issue on documents, I don't know
14 whether it is or it isn't to the case, but if it is important,
15 it seems like it would be better and fairer to have the issue
16 litigated among the parties who know all the complicated stuff
17 rather than with a third party who's not as familiar with the 18 facts. You know, there may be findings that create some kind
19 of an estoppel later, so it just seems to me, to repeat myself
20 maybe, maybe for judicial economy purposes and for the purposes
21 of getting the Court the fullest and fairest explication of all
22 the issues, that the motion should be deferred until after the 23 trial.

24 THE COURT: OK. I'm not going to defer the motion. I
25 will permit you a certain amount of time to gain some

J64WmisiC

1 information. I think it's only fair, Mr. Illoovsky, that you
2 see the evidence that the plaintiffs here have demonstrating
3 that your client's testimony is perjured, so I will give you
4 the rest of the summer to exchange that information. I'd like
5 to have an evidentiary hearing on September 24 or 25.

6 Can you look at your calendars and let me know which 7 of those days works.

8 MR. WENNER: Your Honor, for plaintiffs either day is 9 fine.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Illoovsky.

11 MR. ILLOVSKY: Yes, your Honor. Hold on. I've just 12 got to check the surrounding dates.

13 Yes, either day. Either day would work. The 24th may 14 be an tiny bit better than the 25th.

15 THE COURT: OK. I'll conduct an evidentiary hearing
16 on the 24th. I don't expect it to last more than a day. You
17 should have all of your witnesses and documents ready to go.
18 If there's any technology that you need, you can talk with my 19 deputy about that. I'll issue an order scheduling that 20 evidentiary hearing. Just bring all the exhibits, and you can 21 do a postfiling brief as to proposed findings of fact and 22 conclusions of law after the factual hearing. OK?

23 MR. WENNER: Your Honor --

24 MR. ILLOVSKY: Sorry.

25 THE COURT: First, Mr. Wenner.

J64WmisiC

1 Then I'll hear from, Mr. Illoovsky.

2 MR. WENNER: Just a couple points to raise, both
3 logistics and substantive, on one point.

4 As far as the limited discovery, we would also seek to 5 get some limited discovery from Mr. Petelin as well. One thing
6 we were never able to obtain, for example, is the identity of 7 the person who provided him the documents from overseas, this
8 undisclosed source. We do not know who provided Mr. Petelin
9 the forged documents.

10 THE COURT: OK.

11 MR. WENNER: So to present a full hearing before your 12 Honor, to give you all the facts, we would like to be able to 13 show who it was that provided Mr. Petelin the fake documents
14 from overseas.

15 THE COURT: Did you ask Mr. Petelin who provided the 16 documents at his deposition?

17 MR. WENNER: Yes, your Honor.

18 THE COURT: And what was the answer?

19 MR. WENNER: He refused to answer.

20 THE COURT: Why? On what basis?

21 MR. WENNER: Because of concern of this person is in
22 Russia, and I will be paraphrasing at this point, but security
23 concerns for that person's safety.

24 THE COURT: Mr. Illoovsky, that's not an objection
25 that's an appropriate objection in a deposition. It's not a

J64WmisdC

1 basis to direct a witness not to answer. You could move for a
2 protective order, but you didn't do that.

3 MR. ILLOVSKY: Your Honor, I don't think Mr. Wenner is 4 saying that I instructed Mr. Petelin not to answer.

5 THE COURT: OK. I apologize if I made an assumption.

6 All right. The parties can conduct discovery, limited
7 discovery -- again, just document requests, not depositions --
8 document requests to get the documents. I don't know if you
9 think interrogatories would be helpful.

10 MR. WENNER: At the very least, your Honor, on this
11 question, Who provided you the documents?

12 THE COURT: I'll permit up to five contention
13 interrogatories. Document requests and interrogatories should 14 be served within two weeks of today, and they should be 15 answered within 30 days after they are served.

16 MR. WENNER: And your Honor, as far as our production
17 of documents to Mr. Petelin, the protective order in this case
18 allows for limited disclosures to witnesses, provided they sign
19 the NDA for the purpose of securing their deposition testimony,
20 for example.

21 THE COURT: Right.

22 MR. WENNER: We're sort of on the line or just out of 23 bounds of what the protective order provides for in this case.
24 We just want to be clear that we will be providing him
25 documents potentially that are marked confidential under the

J64WmisiC

1 protective order for this purpose.

2 THE COURT: I will permit that for this purpose, and
3 the documents that are disclosed will be subject to the terms
4 of the protective order in the main action.

5 MR. WENNER: And your Honor, the only other question
6 we want to raise, if your Honor will recall, Mr. Ilyas
7 Khrapunov had served as the intermediary for some period of 8 time between Mr. Petelin and his counsel in responding to the 9 deposition and document subpoenas. We've since learned and 10 believe that Mr. Petelin's counsel is now partners with Mr.
11 Khrapunov's California counsel in the same firm. We know this 12 is not a criminal proceeding, where there needs to be a hearing
13 on conflict, but we are concerned that there's just a further
14 sort of entrenchment of Mr. Ilyas Khrapunov's role in Mr.
15 Petelin's response to the subpoenas and the hearing, and we're 16 seeing that relationship begin to be put back.

17 THE COURT: OK. I mean I previously directed Mr.
18 Illovsky to use a translator other than Mr. Khrapunov.

19 I would expect, Mr. Illovsky, that you'd do that in 20 connection with discovery in this case, and I would ask that 21 the parties bring a translator to the hearing on the 24th.

22 MR. WENNER: Thank you, your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Mr. Illovsky, anything further?

24 MR. ILLOVSKY: Just to understand the Court's process,
25 is there any prehearing briefing that the Court wants, or is it

J64WmisiC

1 all in the form of posthearing supp?

2 THE COURT: I don't need any prehearing briefing. I
3 know what the issue is, and the parties can just present their 4 evidence and response, and then posthearing briefing will be 5 sufficient.

6 MR. ILLOVSKY: OK. Thank you.

7 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Illoovsky, I'll let you
8 drop now, and we'll turn to the main action.

9 MR. ILLOVSKY: Thank you, your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Thank you.
